The Santa Barbara-Ventura County Dental Society provides referrals to American Dental Association, dental-board licensed dentists in Santa Barbara & Ventura counties.

Locally, member dentists work together to make a difference in our community through programs such as Dentist-With-A-Heart, Free School Screenings, Give Kids A Smile and many, many other programs to promote oral health to your friends and neighbors.

SBVCDS members are members of the California Dental Association and the American Dental Association. They agree to abide by the ADA Code of Ethics, and we stand by the quality of their work. Almost 80% of the dentists in our community are members.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Happy New Year!

I hope that everyone enjoyed this holiday season with family and friends and are ready to start this new year with a bang. It's 2020, ready or not, a new decade is here.

The challenges of the next decade are many. But first, let us take a sneak peek at the last decade. In 2010, Time magazine person of the year was the son of a dentist, Mark Zuckerberg. His company shortly after would acquire Instagram and launch targeted marketing to its users changing the advertising world. Steve Jobs introduced the first Ipad that same year. E-commerce made its thunder, courtesy of Amazon, redefining commerce and reshaping consumer experience. Technology made revolutionary changes from smartphones, to the internet of things, AI, Robotics, genetic engineering and many more. Healthcare saw its fair share of uncertainties with fundamental changes in legislation. The Affordable Care Act and the shift away from specialty care toward primary care reflected the aging of the baby boomer generation. These trends are surely echoed in dentistry.

Changes in access to care, flow of information, technology and the cost of acquiring them, the forces of industry on our businesses, and dental business landscape are few examples of our challenges. But they are also opportunities as we adapt and evolve in our association. Organized dentistry gives us a vehicle to navigate through challenges and seize opportunities. Together, we can help tackle issues in our practices and communities in order to uphold our values and the interests of our patients. In the next decade, synergy will be vital for our practices, our dental society, and our profession.

We are very fortunate to have outstanding leadership promote this cause in our society. I would like to start by thanking Dr. Beck- Uhl for her dedication to our society as the 2019 president of our Society. Lisa Beck- Uhl has been a great inspiration to me. Lisa led our board with poise and humility, yet she served as a fierce advocate for member interests both at a local and state level. I have big shoes to fill! I would also like to thank Jon Wong for his exemplary leadership as our outgoing past present. Dr. Wong will continue giving back to our society in a new role as chair of peer review committee. In addition, I am very grateful for the enthusiasm, work ethic, and comradery of all our current board members and look forward to a great upcoming year. As your new president, I am so proud of our members in leadership roles at the state level. Our own Dr. Nagy and Dr. Brunner will serve as the 2020 CDA president and past president, respectively. Finally, what we do as volunteer board members is not possible without the hard work of our executive director Linda Lacunza and her staff. Their dedication to Santa Barbara Ventura Dental Society and its members is what sets us apart from others.

Hessam Siavash DDS, MD, PhD
President

It is an honor to serve as the president of Santa Barbara Ventura Dental Society in 2020. Our biggest asset is our membership, and so I pledge to work diligently and wholeheartedly to ensure the needs and interests of our members are pursued at the local and state level. I am excited to begin a new decade and a new chapter for our component. Please feel free to contact me directly with any needs, thoughts, or concerns, or just to chat. I am delighted to meet more of my colleagues this year and I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Hessam Siavash DDS, MD, PhD
President 2020 SBVCDS

WEBSITE ACCESSIBILITY STANDARDS

Here at the dental society office, we know of at least one building in Ventura that has been targeted for lawsuits by someone saying the doctors' websites aren't compatible with the American with Disabilities Act. Please read the article below from CDA regarding these. As a start, be sure to add a link on your website that says to contact the office if someone needs help with the website. Be sure there is someone in the office that knows what's on the website and can help give information. If you have any videos with sound, make sure you have captions!

Website Accessibility Complaints regarding website accessibility are becoming more common. There are a few steps that dental practices with websites can take to decrease the risk of a monetary demand or lawsuit. One strategy is to add an accessibility link to your website. This is language that tells individuals with disabilities how to seek help if they are unable to access something on your practice's website. The language can instruct individuals to phone the office to have staff read content, provide transcripts of videos or assist them with filling out online forms. It is important to train staff on the language in the link and how to appropriately respond to inquiries.

Another approach is to contact your website designer and ask if your website is accessible, and if not, how they can make it accessible. The AwDA standards for website design are known as WCAG 2.0, levels A and AA. You'll want to be sure that your designer can speak to those standards. If you know your website is not accessible, you can take it down temporarily and replace it with a compliant site. Engage a qualified website designer who is familiar with the accessibility standards, and be sure to address compliance with the accessibility standards contractually.

If your practice hired a certified access specialist to inspect your premises that inspection did not necessarily include testing website accessibility. It might be a good idea to check the inspection report. If you're considering hiring an access specialist, you should inquire whether the individual or firm will test your website for accessibility compliance. The American Dental Association has specific guidance for dental practices on website accessibility and how to appropriately defend yourself against potential complaints and lawsuits. The document "Website Accessibility Claims: Strategies for Dentists," a sample accessibility statement, and a list of technology consultants can be found on www.ada.org.

ADA Announces Policy on Vaping

■ DENTISTS “MUST BE PRUDENT” IN PROTECTING PATIENTS FROM HARMFUL PRODUCTS.

That was the overall message American Dental Association President Chad P. Gehani imparted following the Dec. 16 announcement that the Association has adopted a new interim policy on vaping. The interim policy calls for a total ban on all vaping products that aren't approved by the Food and Drug Administration for tobacco cessation purposes.

The policy, which is in step with the American Medical Association's new policies on vaping, states that the ADA will:

Urgently advocate for regulatory, legislative, and/or legal action at the federal and/or state levels to ban the sale and distribution of all e-cigarette and vaping products, with the exception of those approved by the FDA for tobacco cessation purposes and made available by prescription only; and

Advocate for research funding to study the safety and effectiveness of e-cigarettes and vaping products for tobacco cessation purposes and their effects on the oral cavity.

“While the long-term oral health effects of vaping are under scientific review, as health professionals we must be prudent in protecting consumers from potentially harmful products,” said Dr. Gehani in an ADA statement. “We will continue to advocate for additional research, but we must protect the health of our patients first and foremost. A ban such as this would ensure patient safety while allowing us to explore the impact of vaping products on oral health.”

The ADA has long advocated for the development of a body of scientific research examining the oral effects of both tobacco and non-tobacco nicotine delivery products as part of the ADA policy on tobacco use.

In addition to this interim policy, in September, the ADA House of Delegates passed a resolution stipulating that the word “vaping” and any other alternative nicotine delivery systems be added to the existing ADA policy focused on tobacco use prevention, research and regulation. The interim policy expands upon the Association's 2016 tobacco policy, which calls for vaping devices to be regulated in the same manner as tobacco products.

Besides the AMA, several other organizations have created resources related to helping health care providers and patients learn more about vaping, including the American Academy of Pediatrics and the American Lung Association. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention also has resources on lung injury and electronic cigarettes and vaping. The ADA encourages dentists and other health care providers to report potential vaping-associated respiratory illness by using the Food and Drug Administration's safety reporting portal.

For more information about the ADA's advocacy efforts around vaping and tobacco products, visit ADA.org/vaping.
